'Guided Missiles and Misguided Men' Awards for Government Politicians

Organised by No WARP! Network Opposed to Weapons and Related Production

The DICK NZ Awards are for companies that profit from bloodshed and war. You can nominate any company that is involved in weapons related production, military supplies, or military contracts for a DICK NZ Award. The company can be NZ owned, an NZ subsidiary of an overseas company that is involved with weapons production or military contracts here in Aotearoa, or a company that is involved in weapons production or military contracts overseas and is involved in some other way in the NZ economy. The company nominated will have been involved in their offensive activity during 2005 or in 2006 before the closing date for nominations, 29 September 2006.

Please include as much supporting detail as you can with your nomination - cuttings from newspapers or magazines, notes from a radio or TV programme, printed web pages, and so on. If you don't have much in the way of supporting information, please don't let that stop you from making a nomination.

The 'Guided Missiles and Misguided Men' Awards for Government Politicians are awarded to those who by their words and/or actions support bloodshed and war. The name for these Awards is from a statement by Martin Luther King, Jr: "we have guided missiles and misguided men". You can nominate any government politician (including politicians from parties that are in coalition with Labour). The words or actions for which you are nominating the politician will have taken place during 2005 or in 2006 before the closing date. If you are nominating a politician for something they said, please include the direct quote together with the source of it. If you are nominating a politician for something they did, please include as much supporting detail as you can.

These Awards are your opportunity to say what you think about the companies who profit from bloodshed and war, and the politicians who support it. We encourage you to make as many nominations as you like, providing you use a separate form for each company or politician you are nominating.

The winners of the Awards will be chosen by public vote, details of how you can vote will be available from No WARP! in early October. The Award recipients will be announced at an event in mid October.
